The screenshot shows the phpMyAdmin interface for a database named 'fahrradverleih'. The table 'vermietungen' is selected, and its contents are displayed in a table view. The table has 12 columns: mietnr, mietdatum, name, vorname, strasse, plz, ort, bezeichnung, rahmennr, mietpreis, and wert. The data is sorted by mietnr in ascending order. The row with mietnr 100 is highlighted with a red border, and the cell containing 'Heidelberg' in the 'ort' column of that row is also highlighted with a red border. The 'SQL' tab is active in the top navigation bar.
